Ratepayers Meeting

The annual meeting of the town ratepayers was held in Parker R. Reid's office on Monday night and there was about a dozen ratepayers present. Some members of both the Town Council and School Board were present and Mayor Chambers was in the chair.

Secretary Austin gave the financial report of Town affairs for the past ten months. From December 1st, to October 31st. A discussion took place as to the possibility of reducing the tax rate for next year and Mayor Chambers thought perhaps there might be a chance to reduce a little. The taxable property of the Town amounts to about $225,000 and there is only $10,000 of delinquent debt against the town, so the town having to take over so much land from the C. and E. for taxes a little rate had to be put on to cover this year, but as this land is gradually being sold some of it will be tax producing next year.

The electric light statement while it showed a deficit of $1,100 was shown to be in too bad shape so it had paid off something like $1,700 from last year's business, which had been caused by the action of the banks tightening up on their loan and the government inaction had compelled the town to go to a large expense this year in making changes in the street wiring system.

Mayor Chambers also warned the ratepayers that the government were compelling the Council to pass a by-law before next spring for sanitary purposes which would cause the ratepayers an outlay to install either septic or pull system in their out-houses.

He also called attention to the fact that next Monday is nomination day for Councillors and School Trustees. There will be five vacancies on the Council.

School Board

Secretary J. M. Reed then gave an account of School affairs for the past ten months showing a balance of $3,000 out of which November and December salaries, etc., will have to be paid.

The School Board just passed their

To the Electors of West Calgary, Didsbury District:

My acceptance of office as Minister of Justice in the Government of the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen has made it necessary for me to give active assistance both in eastern and western Canada to candidates supporting the administration. As a result it may be impossible for me to visit you personally during the present campaign. May I hope that I shall not suffer on polling day because of this circumstance.

I hope you, who have known me for so many years both as your Provincial and Federal representative, will believe that I do fully understand your difficulties and your needs and that I will faithfully and effectively represent the interests of every class in this constituency.

I rely on my past record and ask for YOUR VOTE and support in this election, which I consider to be one of the most momentous in the history of the Dominion.

Faithfully yours,

R. B. Bennett

The Way to Save

It is the systematic regularity with which you make small deposits, rather than the occasional banking of a considerable amount, that steadily builds up a substantial financial backing.

Get the habit of definitely depositing. Three dollars saved every week, with interest at 3% compounded semi-annually, in five years will amount to $841.02.

Good News For The World

Christmas, 1921, gives promise of more nearly approaching to a realization of the song of the angels on the first Christmas morn, "Peace on earth goodwill to men," than any like season in years past, thanks to the conference on the limitation of armaments convened at Washington. It is too early as yet to estimate the results of this epoch-making conference, but that it cannot fail to be productive of much good was clearly established at the opening session and subsequent days.

The Great War ended in the "scrapping" of the German navy, a big fleet created as an offensive weapon, a threat against all other nations and the peace and freedom of the world. The British and United States navies have been brought into being for defensive purposes, and the former has long been regarded as a world policeman and been responsible, not for precipitating wars, but in preventing them and maintaining order and extending liberty in all parts of the globe. When the German navy struck its colors and was ignominiously scuttled, the Austrian and Turkish fleets met a like fate. And with the destruction of these navies the need for maintaining great defensive fleets by Great Britain, the United States, Japan and other nations passes unless they, too, were to keep on building against one another.

While the world rejoices at the evidence produced by the Washington conference that any insane, human, barbarous policy is not to be followed, Britain and the United States, the two greatest naval powers, are not distrustful of each other. Neither has any cause to fear attack from the other. And Japan, the third navy power, whose motives are not so well understood, has been seen to, in joining a stop to further construction of these huge and enormously expensive monsters of destruction and to "scrap" hundreds of millions of dollars worth of ships already built and building.

And the Governments of these three countries have agreed to stop the suicidal, war-provoking race for naval supremacy. Whatever the politicians, the militarists and armament manufacturers of these countries may think and desire, they fully realize that any Government which refused to entertain the proposal submitted at the Washington conference would be swept out of office by an outraged people. There may be changes in details of the plan submitted, but in the main it must be ratified because the people themselves so will it.

It will be the first time that Britain and the United States "scrapped" their navies at least partially. Thirty years ago, one hundred years ago these two countries by treaty pledged themselves not to maintain naval forces on the Great Lakes between Canada and the States. That agreement has been carried out by both countries, in letter and in spirit. For over a century there has been no threat of one against the other along the long international boundary line. Nor has either country in naval expansion on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts created vessels of a design intended for use against each other.

What the United States and Britain could and did do over one hundred years ago, and what they have succeeded in doing throughout the years that have followed, all nations ought to be not only willing but able to do in this still more enlightened age. The saving in money and consequent taxation of the people will be enormous, but the greatest benefit of all will be the removal of a standing threat against each other and the peace of the world which these huge fleets of battleships constitute.

The United States demonstrated its good faith in calling the conference at Washington and the proposals submitted to it. There was no compulsion on the United States to take any actions. It is in a position to stand the strain of competing naval actions better than any other country. Britain has demonstrated her sincerity not only by acceptance of the programmatic submitted, but in taking immediate action stopping all work on construction of new ships, including the four powerful battle-cruisers of the Hood type and in urging a still further reduction in submarine construction. The four Hood's alone would have meant a cost equal to three dollars per head for every man, woman and child in the British Isles.

Canada is deeply interested in the outcome. It means that it will not be necessary for this Dominion to even take a start at creating a navy—a course which would have been inevitable if the old race in battleship building was to be continued. It is a further guarantee of continued peace between the two great branches of the English-speaking race, the breaking of which peace would make Canada the battlefield for the contending forces. It will remove danger of Canada becoming involved in a struggle between the United States and Japan, because the Washington proposals are bound to remove much of the growing friction between those two nations.

It is fair to say to the nations of the world to scrap their navies than to have their navies scrap. It is a great forward step towards turning the instruments of war into the machinery and tools of peaceful industry. Peace on earth, goodwill to men will have a new meaning this Christmas.

RHEUMATIC PAINS HAVE DISAPPEARED

As a Result of Treating the Trouble
Through the Blood

The chief symptom of rheumatism is pain. The most effective treatment is the one that most quickly removes the pain and banishes the disease. Many rheumatic people suffer pains that could be avoided by having up the blood. The blood is composed of thin blood it cannot be corrected until the blood is built up.

Mr. E. H. Hall, of Sudbury, N.S., suffered from rheumatism for years, but was more fortunate than many victims of the disease for he found a remedy that so built up his entire system that he was soon free from rheumatism. Mr. Hall says: "I was taken down with rheumatism and at times was under the treatment of a physician for a year. I was sent to Britain, but they hold no hope for my recovery from the trouble. I was confined to bed for three years and a doctor advised me to have the blood built up. I did not know it had to be turned in sheets. My legs and fingers were drawn out of shape and sores developed on my body but the results were not long in coming to bed. I was in this serious condition when a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pill, and I began to take them. The first pill I had to take from the pills was an improved appetite, and then I began to feel stronger, and was finally able to get out of bed and go about again. I continued taking the pills for months, slowly but surely getting new strength, and finally I was able to lay the crutches aside. I had a long stay in bed, my left leg has shortened somewhat, but otherwise I am feeling fine and able to do my work. I am now able to go about again and when the rheumatism came out when I weighed 140 pounds, and when I began going about on crutches I only weighed 67 pounds, a loss of 73 pounds.

It is difficult to tell the time of the trouble. There are many here who know and can vouch for the truth of these statements. You can get these pills through any druggist. In addition, by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Co., Brooklyn, Ont.

Minard's Liniment used by Veterinarians

Mrs. Margaret Bond
Says Troubles Cost
Her A Small Fortune

"During the five years I suffered with stomach trouble and rheumatism I spent a small fortune trying to get well," said Mrs. Margaret Bond, of Riding Mountain, Manitoba, wife of a prospector and well known throughout that section.

"My stomach was in such bad condition," she continued, "that I couldn't eat scarcely anything without suffering afterwards. I often had such painful attacks of rheumatism in my limbs that I couldn't help crying. I was so nervous that if I tried to take a drink of water my hands shook so the water would spill and I was never able to get a good night's sleep. I took all kinds of medicines and treatments, but nothing seemed to help me."

"During the 'flu' epidemic I was taken down with it. I was in bed five weeks and when I got up I wasn't able to leave the house for ten weeks and I didn't have any hope of ever getting well again.

"I decided to try Tanlac as a last resort. I have taken eight bottles of this medicine and the results have been just wonderful. My appetite is better, I am improved after the first few doses and I feel hungry all the time. I am now able to eat anything I want and don't suffer in the least with indigestion, am no longer nervous and can sleep all night and when morning comes I am feeling fine and ready for a hearty breakfast. I haven't a rheumatic pain about me, in fact I feel as well as I ever did in my life and my health seems to be perfect in every way. I have gained eleven pounds in weight and am so much stronger that I can do my housework with ease."

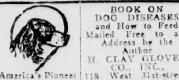

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Increase in Manitoba Farms

According to a statement issued by the Manitoba agricultural department the 1921 census shows that there are 55,184 farms in Manitoba, an increase of more than eighteen per cent. in the past five years. Wheat acreage amounts to 3,501,217 acres; oats, 2,26,376; and barley, 1,043,144. On these farms there are 419,789 horses, 817,759 cattle, 121,361 sheep and 224,704 swine.

Pains After Eating

Today thousands are afraid to eat because of the pains that follow even a light meal of good and wholesome food. Mother Seig's Syrup, taken after meals, has helped tens of thousands to enjoy their food, and put an end to the pains and aches of indigestion. Sold in 50¢ and $1.00 bottles at drugstores.

Wisdom Of Limiting Land Armament Is Considered Doubtful

Washington.—When the arms debate quit work for the Thanksgiving Day recess the following three considerations embraced the central points of interest in their discussion:

Whether the effort to apply generally accepted principles to specific cases in the Far East would bring definite accomplishments or only lead to futile debate.

Whether, in view of the position of France and the general situation in Europe, any serious attempt should be made to agree on a limitation of land armament.

Whether a way can be found to hasten consideration of details on the naval limitation plan, which is proceeding smoothly but too slowly to satisfy the delegates.

Of these questions the first was brought sharply to the fore by several direct clashes of opinion regarding elements of the Far Eastern negotiations. At the executive session of the nine delegations, the right of the Chinese delegates to speak for the Chinese delegates was reported to have been questioned by France, and later a British interpretation of the general principles already adopted was challenged by some of the Chinese.

Earlier in the day the land armament problem had been debated behind closed doors by the delegates of the big five powers, without further than the appointment of a subcommittee to consider collateral subjects like the use of airplanes and poison gases.

Premier Briand, of France, making his farewell speech to the conference, pressed his argument that his country dared not disarm unless he had guarantees from the other powers, and although the general discussion drew renewed expressions of sympathy from every other national group, no one proposed any formal joint declaration of policy.

Meplahs Killed In Recent Fighting

Much to be Done Before Rebellion is Quelled

London.—Although the official report of the operations against the Moplahs in Southern India declares that considerable progress is being made in dealing with the rebellion, it is evident that the process of clearing up still involves severe fighting from the announcement that 233 Moplahs were killed and 51 captured, and on the British side one Gurkha officer and one British officer were killed in the drive north of the Beyone River. A large concentration of Moplahs under all the best known leaders, is reported as taking place at Bear Creekmbersaries, and the British authorities think it would probably be most satisfactory, from a military viewpoint, if this force could be induced to give battle.

It was represented that should the survey parties continue working throughout the winter months, the necessary data required to estimate the approximate cost of the scheme would be available next spring, which would avoid a possible delay in operations of perhaps a year.

From investigations already made, it would appear to be practically certain that Sullivan Lake can be made an immense reservoir, requiring considerable dyking on the east side to it so.

J. W. de B. Farris, attorney-general, in accordance with the terms of the Liquor Control Act. This does not include the $121,000 received from the sale of permits.

Not Conference Result

Montreal Man Sent Hound to Assist Woman

Montreal.—The municipality of a Belgian police dog, belonging to Joseph Cole, led to the arrest of Arthur Leblanc, who snatched a purse from Mrs. MacFarland as she was walking home. The astute hound first seized the stolen purse and dashed back with it to his master. He then ran back and, cornering Leblanc, held him until the arrival of a police officer.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20th,

Now that the election is over, there is a great need of men with a guiding ability to guide the masses at the present time. Men who have been tried in the furnace of public opinion, men whose record in public life is absolutely clear of all the petty entanglements that are put in their way to embarrass them and cause them to deviate from the straight forward path which they consider the right. Men who by education, ability and sympathy for their fellow men will use these for the public good.

We believe that we have such a man in the Hon. R. B. Bennett, a man who can represent us as few other men can, a man who knows western needs and who has been in sympathy and has helped by his gifted intellect and ability not only farmers in this part of the constituency in the earlier days to overcome their troubles with very little personal reward, but who has also followed out the scriptural injunction, "Let not your right hand know what your left hand is doing," numberless times for the good of his fellowmen. We believe that his qualities of leadership and the position which he holds as Minister of Justice entitle him to the people's support. A man whom we cannot afford to pass up.

Rheumatism?
Or Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbar? The remedy is simple, inexpensive, easily taken and harmless.

Campbell & AndersonDemocracy Explained

Editor Pioneer,

In answer to your Scotch corresp. I would say that the so called Democratic Governments of today practice a counterfeited make believe of true Democracy—the real democracy is an epitome of the principles of Carlyle, Lamb, Tolstoi, and other thinkers, as laid down by them in their works and for which principles the world has expressed just administration but has not put them in practice. These democratic principles, after lying slumbering in the text books through the years, are being tested out by the various progressive groups today.

Autocracy, which up till now has always ruled Canada, favors principles diametrically opposed to those of democracy. They are the successful people. They are in life's race and hold their power by their own strength. The first serious struggle between these two forces is now on.

That Mr. H. W. Wood should be suspected of steering so low as to "boss" the Alberta Provincial government is just ridiculous. If high office and money power had at all attracted for him what he could have both then and again in the past, Borden offered him the post of Minister of Agriculture in his government, he was also asked to go to Paris as a Peace delegate for Canada, he was pressed to take the premiership of Alberta, lastly he was selected as Farmers Candidate for West Calgary constituency which might have led to big things. All this he turned down.

It is evident Mr. Wood thinks he's more use to Canada guiding the destinies of the U. F. A. and teaching the principles of true democracy through the country. The streak of personal advantage has failed to show up in the President of the United Farmers as yet.

Three lawyers are running in the West Calgary constituency. If you were wanting a good lawyer for your private business whom would you choose out of the three candidates asking for your franchises. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Capt. Shaw or Ryan.

H. F. W. Vermont,
R. R. Didsbury.Bennett Under Fire
Satisfies Audience

The meeting held by Hon. R. B. Bennett in Didsbury last Friday afternoon was not only a decided success for him but proved to be a source of great interest and information to his audience which was fairly large in spite of the change in time of the meeting. There were about three hundred people present.

Mr. H. S. Patterson opened the proceedings and gave a clear outline of the suggested government grain pool which Mr. Melgson has promised to bring into being if elected and also other subjects, his remarks being listened to with great interest.

Mr. Bennett was in excellent form and his straightforward handling of the issues before the people made him more popular than ever. Amongst other things he stated that while this election was costing him thousands of dollars, not one cent was being contributed by outsiders and that he was not looking for money or reward of any kind and was ready to fill any position which the country wanted him to fill. He took up Shaw's "Rip Van Winkle" statement and neatly turned it on his opponent and stated that he was not out to make any cheap cheap appeal and would rather go down to defeat than appeal to prejudices of his opponent did.

The income tax, merchant marine and other subjects were handled in a masterly manner. As regards taxation he stated that some candidates opposing this government favored direct taxation but that if this was carried out it would mean at least $75 more of taxes each quarter section of land.

He then took up the tariff question but had not gone far when a number of U. F. A. members in the body of the hall interrupted him with questions and it was a regular verbal battle of questions and answers for nearly an hour, with Mr. Bennett decidedly the victor.

Only in one instance was there any bad feeling shown and this man nearly lost control of himself, otherwise both Mr. Bennett and his opponents carried on the debate in excellent temper.

At the close of the meeting the audience was completely surprised when Mr. Fred Molyneux who had been one of the leaders of the U. F. A. party of questioners, arose and in a few well chosen words thanked Mr. Bennett for his splendid address and wished him success and also gave a vote of thanks to him. Another member of the U. F. A. then proposed that the audience sing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" but everybody seemed so taken by surprise that it was not a very lusty response, although good feeling for Mr. Bennett permeated the whole audience with one or two exceptions. This brought the most successful meeting that Mr. Bennett has ever held here to a close.

estimates a little too close this year and there may be a small deficit at the end of the year. Salaries being paid for both schools amount to about $12,000. He thought there might be a chance to pull down their estimates a little next year as there would not be so many supplies to be bought for the High School.

A general discussion then took place on school affairs and the problem of the unjust discrimination which the town had to bear in comparison with the country section of the School District in having to pay a rate of 55 mills against the rural 8 mills, which the School Act calls for, was thoroughly condemned.

The High School affairs also received a great deal of attention. The point was brought up by one of the ratepayers present that the heating arrangements of the new school was very poor indeed and asked for the reasons. The same trouble had happened in the old school when it was built. The blame was again laid on the architects. This will have to be altered and consequently an overlay will have to be made to cover same which will take off some of the saving for next year.

In reply to questions Secretary Reed stated there was not much chance of doing with fewer teachers or a smaller salary schedule.

Education is costing the town so much that it was becoming a burden unless the government would step in and give more assistance. The government grant is about $2,000 to the High School now. As this school is composed mostly of outsiders it was the general feeling that some action should be taken by the school Trustees Association in requesting the government to form High School districts on the present arrangements are entirely unfair.

This meeting was one of the most interesting that the ratepayers have held for some years although there were not as many present as there should have been.

At the conclusion of the discussion which lasted about two hours, Mr. W. G. Liesemer moved and Mr. H. E. Osmond seconded the adoption of the reports as read and the meeting adjourned.

Hon. R. B. Bennett's Record

There may be a few newcomers in the district who are not familiar with Hon. Mr. Bennett's record as a public man in Canada and so we quote just a few of the measures that he has been successful in securing for the country. There are a very large number of other things that he has secured for the City of Calgary which we do not mention as they concern that city alone. He has to his credit:

The reservation of the oil rights on forest and Indian lands for the benefit of the people of Canada.

Voted and spoke against extension of the time limit of railroad charters.

Fought in the interests of the people against extravagant grants to Mackenzie and Mann.

Active in securing millions for relief of western farmers, plus seed grain, fodder etc.

Successful insistence that contractors on government work employed local workmen.

Demanded for provincial farms.

Firm attitude in regard to farmers' credits with Banks.

Attended railway commission and fought for the interests of western farmers.

Engineered graftless purchase of remounts throughout province.

Obtained from government protection of homesteaders' rights while on active service.

Has contributed his talents liberally, as well as his time and money, in forwarding the work of the Red Cross since the commencement of the big war.

Didsbury Defeats Cartairs in Basketball

A very interesting basketball game was staged between Cartairs and Didsbury last week, in the Memorial Hall. This is the first time Cartairs have had a basketball team in the 'M' and they put up a very good game. Stewart Boyce and Harper Miller doing some very nice playing and Crommy was always there with his touch. On the home team Cecil Standard played a very skilled game and the rest of the team were all close seconds. There was a good fast bunch and without much difficulty won by a score of 25-18. C. Bricker and H. Gabel acted as official referees.

RUGBY

The last meeting of the Club was well attended, considering the cold weather. To satisfy the dancing faction, a vote was taken on dancing at Club meetings. A resolution to have a dance for Club members every three weeks was carried. The first to be held November 30th. A game of leapfrog, unarranged by the President, won great applause.

The Misses Watson and Kilbride visited the Caweltz home over the week end.

We understand Mrs. Galt home is a very reasonable time Sunday night Mr. Treffry Worthington spent last week in the Zella district.

Anyone who did not attend the box social at Zella missed a pleasant evening. A splendid programme arranged by Mr. Jones and Mr. J. White was given. Some got the box for a quarter but Bill paid considerably more for his.

A jolly crowd gathered for the dance at Rugby. The floor was capably managed by Mr. Whitcher. Anyone desiring dancing lessons apply to "Dad".

Suddenly there was another shot about the door, and a young fellow in a scarlet tunic and yellow-striped riding pants walked briskly in. His lithe figure, his clear boyish face, his military alertness, were in marked contrast to the fat, careworn, middle-aged, dressed crowd. He had taken in the situation at a glance and walked, with a rather faster, more powerful, direct to the deepest recesses of the hall, where he confronted by an unexpected dilemma. It took his gun off the lantern jack to cover the policeman's known perfectly. He started to speak, promising to make the exacting process would begin immediately. If the policeman had only stood at the door and ordered him to put up his gun, or pointed his revolver, he would have known a policeman should, he would have had time to plan his campaign. But this boy in scarlet had a revelation for him. He was only eight steps from the door to where the outlaw stood, and those eight steps at a parade pace occupied about a minute and a half. The policeman from Montana was quick enough with his gun, but not particularly nimble in intellect. He had not faced a situation like this before. What was the policeman going to do, anyway? Would he never stop and deliver his gun? He had not even drawn his gun.

By this time the policeman was beside him. He did not seize him, nor shoot at him, nor menace him in any way, but somewhere in his manner and bearing was a sense of friendliness.

"Perhaps you don't know that it's against the law to furnish a revolver in this country," he said. "Better let me take it for you until you are leaving town."

"Against the law?" said the ruffian, now recovering himself. "That's a good one. Why, ever'thing I've done for twenty years has been against the law. I cracked up the law for myself, you know."

"Not the Canadian law," said the Mounted Policeman. "You'll only offend against it once, and it won't be the last time you get caught."

"That's so," agreed the other. "Then what'll happen?"

"I'll arrest you."

"You'll have to eat you in three bites. I can tick you with one hand."

"How many like me do you think you could tick?" asked the policeman, with a smile.

The man from Montana had removed his eye from the hummock back, who was now dancing about in menacing attitudes.

"Forget it, Peter," ordered the policeman.

"Now how many like me can you tick?"

"About six," said the other, speaking with a smile.

"All right," said Sergeant Carey.

"Then, will you come with me or wait for me in the way?" asked the policeman.

"This looks to me like a better place to stop a man, especially when he's visiting the country for the first time. I think I'll let you sleep first, and you can get up early and appear at court at ten tomorrow morning. Let me help you to your room. But first, I'll have to trouble you for your gun."

"What if I clear out through the window?"

"You won't—not very far!" There was a clearing in the last words but it remained in the air. The man who had made a business of breaking law for twenty years, and he calmly handed over his revolver.

"Seized me if I know where to do it," he said. "I could eat that in three bites!"

"Yes," said the man behind. "But you couldn't digest the whole British Empire, and I don't know what you got to do with it. Besides, he mightn't make as easy chewing' as you think. You'd find him more brisket than sirloin."

"I've seen him throw a handfull a bigger man than you right in this room, an never turn a hair in doing it."

"I'm sure you're right," said the policeman.

"I'll let you go. Come to the first night of his quietude to see if you're still in the country."

At ten the next morning the man who made a business of breaking law appeared before the magistrate, paid a fine of fifty dollars, and was remanded to the county jail to serve a month.

Chiropractic READ THIS

1. The human body is the most wonderful of all machines.
2. Every part, or so called organ, is kept healthy and running smoothly by an active Intelligent Force from the brain down the spinal cord and out over the nerve paths as they leave the spinal column. This Force is what you commonly refer to as Nerve Energy.
3. Hinder the flow of this Force by pressure on the nerve trunks leading to any of the organs of the body and that part or organ will not function properly, thus producing the condition we call disease.
4. Headache, backache, lumbago, heart, stomach, liver and kidney disorders as well as many other chronic conditions are directly caused by pressure on the nerve trunks as they leave the spinal column between the movable vertebrae of the spine.
5. The Chiropractor gives direct to the cause of your trouble and by adjusting the vertebrae releases the pressure and then nature cures.

Nominations For Municipal Elections

Next Monday is nomination day for Councillors and School Trustees for the Town and School District.

Five Councillors and three School Trustees are wanted. Mayor Chambers has another year to complete his term of office.

The ratemakers should get busy at once and see that good men are brought out to fill these positions. The nominations will take place at the office of the Town Secretary-Treasurer.

Premier Meighen's Part in Halting Armament Race

To rid the world of the war mind is the noblest aim that any statesman could have. Towards the accomplishment of that most greatly to be desired end, Canada's Prime Minister, in recent days, has played no inconsiderable part—a part which reflects much credit upon himself and the country he represents. The firm stand taken by Mr. Meighen in opposing any renewal of the Japanese Alliance which would be unacceptable to the United States, and in insisting upon a conference in regard to Pacific problems, which he believed would go a long way towards calling a halt in the armament race of the Great powers—so disturbing to the peace and progress of the world—undoubtedly helped materially to bring about the present very happy situation.

The British press was unanimous in stating that the step taken by Mr.

President Harding in calling a conference to discuss disarmament and Pacific problems, was fully made possible by the Conference of the Premiers and the definite stand taken chiefly by Mr. Meighen and Mr. Smuts. For a time it seemed that the efforts of Mr. Meighen and others, in trying to block the Japanese Alliance unless it were framed in such form as not to interfere in any way with the most friendly relations with the United States, were all in vain. The decision of the Lord Chancellor that as a matter of International Law, the Alliance must remain in force for another year appeared to put an effectual stopper on further argument. But our Prime Minister, nothing daunted, and with characteristic courage, persisted in his demand for a conference in the firm belief that full and frank consultation would bring about the best settlement. It will surely be gratifying to Canadians, of all ranks and shades of political feelings, to realize that, at all events, the views held from the start of the Conference by our Prime Minister, and so vigorously expressed by him, have become the dominating views.

The unanimous acceptance by all interested countries of President Harding's transparently honest and sincere invitation to a conference and the especially warm welcome it received from the British Government and the British Press and people, are the most significant happenings in the world since the Armistice.

If the Conference progresses, as we all fervently hope and pray it does, a happy solution of all questions of armament and of the perplexing and menacing problems affecting Great Britain, United States and Japan in the Pacific, the world will be profoundly and devoutly thankful.

Mr. Meighen has been described by his political enemies as a Tory of the Jingo School. Never was there a fair designation, and never more can it be applied with the slightest semblance of truth. The Premier's attitude in England stamps him as a sincere lover of peace and a believer in the best principles of broad liberalism.

No one can be fairly accused of being illiberal-minded who advocates, as he did so effectively, the desirability of full and frank consultation between conflicting interests rather than attempted exercise of domination by one or the other—to say nothing of his strong declarations in favor of the greatest possible publicity in matters of international controversy.

Suggestion For Sunday and Public School Teachers

The Pioneer has laid in a nice stock of Christmas cards that are suitable for presentation by Sunday and Public School teachers to their scholars.

We will print any greeting and the name of the teacher presenting them on any design that we have in stock that may be chosen.

Come in and see them or drop us a card at once for samples and we will mail them.

Facts to Remember on December 6th

A vote for R. B. Bennett means the endorsement of class government with big business in control, legislation for protection of commercialism instead of humanity, and means continuation of unfair treatment to returned soldiers.

A vote for J. T. Shaw means a vote for a representative without a leader, who is responsible to no group and who has received no nomination in convention and standing alone is helpless to advance the cause of reform and progression.

A vote for E. F. RYAN is a vote for the reconsideration and readjustment of the whole returned soldier problem in the interest of fair play and justice and it means legislation for the masses and the return of Liberal prosperity.

THE RED PIGEON — THE YOUNG PRIEST AND HIS
CONVERTS — THE DEATH
OF RED PIGEON — A
PLEDGE FULFILLED.

Last Things

Old Meekoo-Maymee (The Red Pigeon) had passed away, and now her body must have Christian burial. She had drawn her annuity for the last time, had eaten her last bannock, had partaken of her last meal of Government bacon and fresh beef, had quaffed her last cup of tea, had smoked her last pipe, and for the last time had kissed her crucifix, counted her beads, and said her last prayer.

Early Missions

Thirty years before this occurrence a young priest of the Roman Catholic Church, fresh from college at Montreal, and from his apostolic ordination by the Reverend Fathers, had reached the Qu'Appelle Mission, ready and eager to spend his young life for the benefit of the Metis in their scattered settlements, or for the enlightenment of the wandering tribes of Indians who roamed at will over the summer prairie in pursuit of the buffalo, or who traversed the winter forests as trappers and hunters.

A Unique Mission Field

For fifteen years his life from early Spring until latest Autumn was spent among the roving bands, of both half-breed and savages, whose sole occupation during those months was pursuing and killing the buffalo, the hides of which they converted into robes prepared for the markets of all northern climes, and whose flesh for they preserved as pemmican for sale at the Company's posts, often to be resold, in the following winter, to the Indian at a handsome profit, in the event of a scarcity of food.

Living The Simple Life

As the red men thus wandered, hither and thither, year after year, over the boundless prairies, the young priest went where they went, slept where they slept, ate where and what they ate, learned their language and their modes of thought, baptized their infants and buried their dead.

From the Known to the Unknown

Building on the Indian's marvelous conception of the Great Manitou, he told them of His fatherly beneficence, of the Man-ger Babe at Bethlehem, His wonderful life among the poor. His deeds of love and mercy. His ignominious death and His return to "Keche-Keesik—Awootsa (The Land Beyond the Big Sky).

Converts

The simple pathos of his story appealed to and won many a savage heart. Scores of converts were baptized. Among the latter was Meekoo-Maymee, the Red Pigeon. And now, a quarter of a century later, she had "ceased to live" and her body awaited Christian burial, because an injunction had been laid upon the priest that when any of these baptized converts might die, no matter in what part of the country it must be reported to the nearest priest or mission, so that the body might be laid away in consecrated ground, in a marked grave, and guarded from the depredations of the ravenous beasts of forest or plain.

A Dry Country

The summer of 1889 was a period of dry scorching weather. Vegetation was parched by the intense heat, and where in the spring time hundreds of sloughs had been filled with water, only immense areas of baked earth.

showing fissures of almost incendiary length could be seen.

A Problem

The Indians of File Hills were face to face with a serious problem. Their hay meadows had been burnt up by the fervent heat apparently their splendid herd of six hundred cattle had escaped to starvation in their coning winter.

For weeks the situation was the subject of grave consideration by department officials.

The Solution

The final decision reached was that the whole Indian encampment, of over 300 people—men, women and children, with all their cattle and horses must migrate thirty miles north to Horse Hills, where hundreds of lakes, filled with water had been located where grass grew high as a horse's back and where timber in abundance could be found suitable alike for fuel and for building purposes.

The White Chief

The task of supervising this great trek and bringing it to a successful issue was placed upon the Father Inspector, Mr. Richard McConnell, who became the "White Chief" of the community until the following Spring. Thousands of tons of hay were stacked and protected by miles of fire guards, and hundreds of houses and stables erected. Immense quantities of food were freighted from the Government warehouse at the south.

Death In The Camp

During the long, cold, tedious winter the average number of deaths occurred—that of Red Pigeon being one.

An Indian Runner

Fifty miles south to the mission at Lebret, an Indian messenger was sent to Father Hugonard, the one time priest of the buffalo.

hunting days. He arrived at dusk.

Keeping a Pledge

The Rev. Father made immediate preparation for an early daylight north. During the night an awful blizzard developed. Three priests resident at the mission each in turn besought the Father for the privilege of going in his stead.

Deeds Not Words

While uncertainty prevailed as to which of the three might be chosen, one stole away to the stables, harnessed and hitched a horse to the sleigh and, appearing at the mission door, simply said, "Good Father, give me your blessing, I am off."

Some Journey

The winds blew and the blizzards raged, and all roads and trails were obliterated, but into the teeth of the storm went this devoted young priest to make good the pledge of the Church given years before to a benighted Indian woman. His first night was spent in a bluff; where his well-blanketed horse partook of a generous feed of oats, then lay down on the snow to rest. The priest himself, behind his temporary windbreak, was able to kindle a fire and thaw out sufficient food for his supper. The second night was passed under similar conditions.

Arrival and Return

On the morning of the fourth day the priest was ready to start on his return journey. Again two long night vigils were spent in the open air, his only companions being his horse and the frozen corpse of the Indian woman.

The Home Stretch

On the morning of the sixth day the intrepid son of the Church struck out across an open plain of 20 miles extent, over which the tireless winds whistled and shrieked as they carried the blinding snow here, there, and everywhere. At noon he found the head of Larocque Coulee, and descended into the shelter of the Qu'Appelle valley.

Duty Done

At noon he reached the mission, and staggering fell across the threshold, utterly exhausted. He had suffered much, but his self-imposed task was finished and the body of Meekoo-Maymee, The Red Pigeon, received Christian burial.

A WEEKLY CAUSERIE OF MATTERS—TREATED IN LIGHTER VEIN

CARELESS DOCTORS—CARUSO—A LEGACY TO FUTURE GENERATIONS—DIVORCE AND DISINTERESTED LOVE.

It is rather surprising to observe that no action is to be taken against the doctor in Toronto who recently administered to two women the wrong drug, causing almost immediate death. In our opinion there can be very little excuse for such carelessness on the part of any man admitted to the practice of medicine. It would seem to us as though life, today, is coming to be held far too lightly when such an occurrence as the one quoted can be passed over with so little comment; no example being made of the person responsible for the hastening of two victims of his negligence to eternity.

The calling of a doctor is serious one. He holds too often the balances of life and death in his hands; he is the last appeal to so many of us that only such men as those who by earnest diligence and training are immune from the possibility of such mistakes as the one which caused this terrible tragedy should be allowed to practice.

Surely an error of this kind should be at least sufficient to deprive the culprit from the practice of his profession for a period during which time he might be making himself more fit to minister to suffering mankind, such fitness to be determined by his peers.

In view of the sad fact that Enrico Caruso, the marvellous opera singer, is reported to have lost his voice, it is a comfort to reflect reached him he leaped nimbly aside then running in seized it by both horns. A mighty tusse ensued. Then slowly the head of the animal was forced to the ground and St. Cyr by a mighty heave threw it off its feet. It only took a moment for him to draw his long hunting knife from the beaded sheath which hung from his hip and plunge it into the animal's neck. Then the Indian who had witnessed this remarkable scene returned to the spot the bull was quite dead and St. Cyr was called engaged in removing his hide.

Acoso The Hunter

Another great hunting exploit was performed at Crooked Lakes in the summer of 1895, this time by an Indian named Acoso. It happened, I think, some time in the early nineties. Acoso had been down in the Moose Mountains hunting moose, and had not been successful. He had shot away all his bullets when he came upon three fine moose. He had no means of killing them and he conceived the idea of herding them where he could replenish his bullet pouch.

He was famous among all the plains people as a runner; so

As they crossed the mouth of a ravine which cut into the valley bank they came upon a solitary old, bony bull. The scars which marked his lineage and sides were mute evidences of many a sanguinary conflict with others of his species. He was one of those outcasts which had been chased out of the herd by the younger and more vigorous male animals.

that the wonderful music which he has already given to us is not lost to us and not lost to our children. In connection with this thought the writer heard the other day that in the large new building to be erected in Matlock by a well known Publishing Company, Master records of each of the great artists of our day are to be built into a chamber in the walls of the building so that—say a thousand years from now, should some catastrophe have effected our race and its history for a period of time and then our remains should be unearthed by the beings who may replace us on this sphere, they would be able to listen to the music which delighted the ears of the natives in the twentieth century!

That is rather a wonderful idea is it not? And makes us speculate as to what those mythical beings, thousands of years hence, will think of us and our music; what will they write about; how far they will have advanced and grown in comparison to us. I could not help wondering too whether it might be the intention of that record producing company to leave for the delectation of those far-off generations some of the "jazz" so popular nowadays, but probably they desire the peoples of that future time to think of us as kindly and gently as possible and will only leave the classics—the best of us—We hope so.

It is only about three years ago since divorce was almost unheard of in Saskatchewan. Today it is fairly common, and we are becoming somewhat used to the notices which appear in the daily papers.

Divorce, with its manifold complications will never be anything but a solid blot on any record. At the same time we do not deny that there are cases in which a clear cut severance by law is the only solution to the tangle into which some marriages have become snarled. But we still think that on going to the root of the matter the majority of divorces should never have been marriages in the first place. People become thrown together in the most indissoluble ties by ultimate motives not knowing the meaning of love which can be the only foundation of a truly happy home and distress and shipwreck can but result.

Speaking of disinterested love, the writer was this week reading again the inimitable story by Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities", and in the sketch of Sidney Carton we think the author has surpassed himself.

You may perhaps remember that Carton adored Evremonde's wife. Evremonde, an aristocrat from a noble French family, had by the people, was to be well-looked, and Carton, an Englishman, who resembled him in appearance, changed places with him, by an arrangement with the jailor, and suffered death in his stead, while the friends whom he had served so nobly escaped from the unhappy country. Remember, Carton for love of Evremonde's wife gave up his life that she might keep her husband, and as we read and re-read the story we cannot help but wonder if a bolder heart ever entered Carton's bosom. The thought, for instance that had Evremonde been guillotined, the man he loved would have been free, and, probably, in time, would have turned to him, and although we know such reasoning would have been merely human, yet it seems sacrilegious in connection with him, who became truly the hero of that wonderful story.

Perhaps there are those among us capable of such self-forgetting sacrifice. After all, it takes the occasion to bring out the noble deed and should circumstances warrant we think there are more heroes in our midst than we are aware of.

Tales of Our Own Country

Dealing with Matters of Interest to all Canadians—The Incomparable Resources of Our Country—The Beauty of Its Landscapes—The Possibilities of Regions Almost Unexplored.

In the early days the Little Arm Valley which enters Long Lake about a mile and a half above the present summer resort of Regina Beach, was a great feeding ground for the buffalo. In winter time they sought shelter there and fed on the sides hills when the snow lay deep on the plains. In summer, however, they spread out over the prairie.

Mighty Hunter

Sometime in the fifties there was a very redoubtable French-Canadian named St. Cyr, who was attached to the Hudson's Bay post at Touchwood Hills. He was a man of great physical strength and renowned throughout the region as a mighty hunter. One summer he was in charge of the little trading post which the great fur company maintained on the eastern shores of Long Lake, not very far from the present Saskatchewan Beach.

One day in the fall accompanied by a Saulteaux Indian, he a boat, and rowing across lake landed at the mouth of Little Arm Valley. There he procured up the valley for a couple of miles, shooting the ducks as at that season of the year coming in from the swamps lakes of the far north on their the wintering grounds of south.

St. Cyr was a fine shot and for the afternoon was well advanced the Indian was carrying a very respectable bag of wild ducks.

Says Canada Is Workers' Paradise

Major Mary Booth Thinks Conditions Are Ideal

Canada was energized as a worker's paradise by Major Mary Booth, General Secretary of the Canadian Council, who has returned to England from a visit to the Dominion. "Canada does strike one as a place to live in," she said in an interview. "All the houses seem to have telephones and electrical washing machines controlled by pressing a button. Even the mangles are worked by electricity. Everybody seems to have a motor car. One of the biggest shops in Toronto has a garage for its employees' cars."

Colic, Cramps, Stomach Pains Need a Quick Relief

Security against these sudden ills comes in always keeping handy a bottle or two of Nolite. No tampering with the bottle to bed and Nolite will meet that want. It is described with admiration in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine. The top is of heavy oiled paper, which sheds water effectively, and the handle is of cheap wood. It costs far less than the pressing of a wet and wrinkled suit.

More Creameries Needed
Despite the high cost of construction the demand for creameries in Saskatchewan is most urgent. While there are, it is estimated, fewer milch cows in the province than last year, the number of creameries registered a great increase and represent a total investment worth $2,175,000.

At this time of the year, with the Christmas holiday season drawing near, the question of a winter holiday trip back home to see the "old folks" is uppermost in the minds of many Western people.

With this in view, the Canadian National Railways have arranged for considerably reduced fares from stations in Western Canada—Winnipeg West, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The special fares may be taken advantage of any time between December 1st, 1921, and January 15th, 1922, and are good for return during three months from date of issue. Tickets may be purchased to any point in Eastern Canada. See any Canadian National Railway Agent for further particulars.

Milner's Worm Powders are a prompt relief from the attacks of worms in children. They are powerful in their action and, while leaving nothing to be desired as a worm expellent, have a decided effect upon the youthful system, remedying fever, biliousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and other ailments that follow disorders caused by worms in the stomach and bowels.
